
Obits Too

Posted by prebolo - 2007/09/20 00:40

You also need to fix your obit page. Maybe this is the reason you can't keep your paper running.

Post edited by: cherim, at: 2007/09/20 02:14

Re:Obits Too

Posted by Unsightly - 2007/09/20 02:59

Perhaps more detail would be helpful. It reminds me of the time that I went to the VCR repair shop (does that date me?). The technician asked what was wrong and I replied by saying, "It doesn't work." That was a big mistake, he proceeded to explain to me that I should just throw it away then, unless I could explain more details, he would have a hard time fixing it.

To make a long story short... I ended up leaving it at the repair shop because the repair cost was greater than the cost of a new purchase. Remember those days?

Anyway, I am not saying that we should just throw away the Tracy Press website, but more details might be more helpful here. :)

What is the URL? What is the behavior? And what do you expect?

Post edited by: cherim, at: 2007/09/20 02:13

Re:Obits Too

Posted by Benigno Supporter - 2007/09/20 04:28

Unsightly wrote:

It reminds me of the time that I went to the VCR repair shop (does that date me?).

No, Unsightly. Nothing would ever date you.

:laugh:

Post edited by: Benigno Supporter, at: 2007/09/20 02:29

Re:Obits Too

Posted by Unsightly - 2007/09/20 07:21

hehehe. Your pretty clever BS - just made me spill my coffee.

I'm too fat for you?

Perhaps someday you will see me for my inner beauty?

;)

Cheers!

Re:Obits Too

Posted by Unsightly - 2007/09/20 07:23

Almost forgot...

:kiss:

=====

Re:Obits Too

Posted by Benigno Supporter - 2007/09/20 07:57

Ha! And have a good day, sir.

=====

Re:Obits Too

Posted by Unsightly - 2007/09/20 08:07

Oh man!

My karma just went down for that one.

B)

=====

Re:Obits Too

Posted by Kathy - 2007/10/23 00:16

Back to the original topic....

Seriously folks the obits need to be posted in a much more timely manner. A friend of mine passed away almost a week ago and her obit has yet to be posted online. I have now emailed the Tracy Press twice asking about it. Since I now live out of state it's not like I could have run down to the corner and got the paper it was in last Saturday.

Maybe it's time the Matthews family just sold the paper if they cannot have more concern for their community than this.

=====