Does anybody really have any inside what goes on at this place (late night parking lot visits). But then again I here Italians are Stallions.

Your local friends!

food was good. Parking lot issue (are they re-paving?)
How can they re-pave the parking lot and stripe that late at night without lights? Huh!

paving parking lots at that time of night would be overtime and hard to do. Maybe somebody got their Italian sausage hard in the parking lot or maybe its a linguini winnie

My guess is that he lives here in Tracy somewhere; I don't care if he claims he "found God" - leopards don't change their spots.

Wow, do you all really have nothing better to do than to talk about people and things that you have no clue about? Maybe you should find God, get a life and most likely a job.... paving/stripping parking lots would be a good start.

Of course I have better things to do with my time. You stated we have no clue about this guy...let me ask you then do you know him? Because men like that do have to answer to GOD! and this dirt bag needs to watch his back..because people know what he did and GOD is not HAPPY with him.

We ALL have to answer to GOD in one way or another. And yes I do know him and his family but it is not my business to judge who does what or my business to stick my nose in anyone else's business. I have my own life to deal with. The only reason I even responded to this was because of the fact I do know him. So whatever it is that you know or think you know... just move on with your life and stop worrying about his business. Where is it getting you? There are a million other causes out there that could use your energy and opinions if you want to do something useful.

Look at the no sidewalks post and help get sidewalks in for the kids or something. There are alot of things to focus on.
