
Police logs and blotters all in on place

Posted by maybenotdumBcommenT - 2008/07/29 18:23

written by Concerned Parents , July 23, 2008

10:27 a.m.: An ex-employee's 35-year-old husband at Tangles Salon, 118 W. 10th St., went into the shop and threatened employees, police were told.

What did he threaten them with.... a combover?

...

written by Concerned Parents , July 23, 2008

9:51 p.m.: A man in a white shirt and tan shorts walked out of 7-Eleven, 455 W. Grant Line Road, stumbling drunkenly with a burrito he didn't pay for, employees said. The caller refused to press charges and told police that they probably know who he's talking about.

That's how I'm going to shop at 7/11 from now on!

...

written by Concerned Parents , July 23, 2008

12:08 p.m.: Someone demanded a man at gunpoint to hand over his wallet outside the 99 Cent Only Store, 1320 W. 11th St., the victim told police.

Oddly enough he only had 1 dollar.

...

written by Concerned Parents , July 23, 2008

1:24 p.m.: A man in a white shirt and black pants asked people for money to buy gas outside of 7-Eleven, 2360 W. Grant Line Road, and then started fights with them if they refused, a caller reported.

This is how I'm going to get my gas at 7/11 too!

...

written by maybenotdumBcommenT , July 23, 2008

Concerned Parents, a little early to start drinking isn't it? Making a joke about someone being held up at gun point is in bad taste.

...

written by mexican4life , July 23, 2008

concerned parent-

lmao...that is funny....oddly enough you made me laugh smilies/cheesy.gif

...

written by Concerned Parents , July 23, 2008

MNDC- Not intending to offend, sorry. Just having a laugh at the usual bizarre and plentiful contents in the Police Log.

Thanks- M4L

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 23, 2008

Wait, let's start where Concerned Parents left off.

"7:49 p.m.: A caller said someone keeps shooting birds near Taco Bell, 915 S. Tracy Blvd. The caller said she saw a dead bird in front of the fast food joint's front doors recently."

The next day, the restaurant ran out of soft chicken tacos.

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 23, 2008

Actor Joe Pesci was seen wandering around Tracy looking for his nephew's house around 1:45 p.m. on Monday.

"1:51 p.m.: A short man with slicked-back hair was knocking on a caller's door for about a half-hour and left a note claiming to be the caller's uncle on the 1500 block of Tanya Lane. The caller said he doesn't have an uncle."

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 23, 2008

Tracy Press reporter uses the word "contiguous" after reading its definition in a dictionary.

"5:10 a.m.: Residents of a house on the 1300 block of Vallerand Road have provoked repeated complaints because of their loud parties, littering whiskey bottles and garbage spilling into contiguous yards, a neighbor told police."

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 23, 2008

"7:49 a.m.: Police found a silver 2000 Pontiac sedan that was stolen from Oakland. It was towed from Tracy Park Apartments, 2800 N. Tracy Blvd."

Usually, the stolen vehicle is found in Oakland. What's going on here?

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 23, 2008

"1:08 p.m.: A woman reported two men in front of her house were in a fight. She said theyâ€™re neighbors on the 800 block of Chestnut Avenue." (and this is what they didn't print) Dispatchers said they could hear the woman yelling in the backround "C'mon, give him a left, give him a right."

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 23, 2008

Sorry maybenotdumBcomment, I couldn't help myself. smilies/wink.gif

...

written by Concerned Parents , July 23, 2008

FTUD- Missed those-ha ha.

...

written by amy , July 24, 2008

Oh My Gosh, my sides are hurting!!!! Both of you are on a roll!!!
Love it, keep 'em coming!

Nothing like breaking the tension of this Police Log.

Thanks! Worth my while reading this!

-amy

...

written by maybenotdumBcomment , July 24, 2008

Whats so bizarre about someone pointing a gun at you?

...

written by maybenotdumBcomment , July 24, 2008

bang bang, you're dead.

...

written by maybenotdumBcomment , July 24, 2008

written by fortheunderdog , July 23, 2008

Sorry maybenotdumBcomment, I couldn't help myself.

Don't apologize to me. You haven't done anything directly to me. For a cop I would think you'd have some morals.

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 24, 2008

I have morals and I also have a sense of humor. Makes the job easier. Serious when you have to be, funny when you don't. Besides, I'm retired.

...

written by maybenotdumBcomment , July 24, 2008

What about once a cop always a cop, you guys are getting off by other peoples hurt. You lost it. Sick. I'm not the moral police but later you all will think about this and possible regret it later. And if you don't, oh well. Maybe you'll have a gun waved in your face then you can experience it first hand. Then you can't b___h about it.

...

written by Concerned Parents , July 25, 2008

Come on MNDC- you know you want to.....

9:53 p.m.: A car rammed into a tree outside Motel 6, 3810 N. Tracy Blvd.

What did the car have against the tree? smilies/grin.gif

...

written by maybenotdumBcomment , July 25, 2008

Actually Concerned parents, no I don't.

I think my question would be, what happened to the driver. Is he OK?

Like I told bla, press on with your jokes. Wait until you have an incident happen to you and it is in the paper. In fact, let me know and I will come up with some good jokes.

Do you think the fire fighters had to use the jaws of life to get the driver out. Could be he was paralyzed. Now he can learn to play basket ball in a wheel chair a soon as he's feeling better

...

written by maybenotdumBcommenT , July 25, 2008

Have any of you had a family or friend in a car accident? Well I have, 2. I remember sitting in the room where thy put families to wait so that when they come to tell you they died you won't upset the other people when you are screaming and crying from the shock.

Shame on you all.

...

written by Concerned Parents , July 25, 2008

MNDC-see- the story did not mention a driver.... just that a car rammed a tree... maybe I'm an easy laugh but that is funny to me.

...

written by maybenotdumBcommenT , July 25, 2008

Ya like the car drove itself.

...

written by maybenotdumBcommenT , July 27, 2008

Well. we have something in common then ftud. What, have you been fuming for 3 days over that or are you looking to make belated attacks against me. You are attacking innocent people who most likely do not read these logs so I could care less if your widdle feelings are hurt.

Write comment

The Tracy Press now requires registration for commenting on this Web site. As always, we encourage a free and open exchange of ideas and information. We reserve the right but do not assume any obligation to delete comments that do not meet our publishing standards. Report abuse to tpweb@tracypress.comThis e-mail address is being protected from spam bots, you need JavaScript enabled to view it .

Re:Police logs and blotters all in on place

Posted by maybenotdumBcommenT - 2008/07/29 18:33

written by fortheunderdog , July 24, 2008

"A man on the 100 block of Lahola Court was cleaning his gun and accidentally shot himself in the foot. The gun was a .40-caliber handgun, and the shooter immediately ran for some alcohol while his son yelled at him, according to the report."

I think the owner of his handgun should take a class on handgun safety. Maybe he forgot that you always handle a gun as if it's loaded. Here's the 3 safety tips for handguns.

1. Finger off the trigger.
2. Finger off the trigger.
3. Finger off the trigger.

I'll bet that swig of tequila was good though.

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 24, 2008

"3:42 a.m.: A woman on the 200 block of Crystal Creek Court reported that she heard a loud bang on the side of her house."

Probably the guy shooting himself in the foot.

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 24, 2008

"12:08 p.m.: A couple on the 100 block of Gibson Court were arrested for fighting."

But who won???

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 24, 2008

"12:43 p.m.: Someone on the 200 block of Babcock Lane called and said his or her 14-year-old brother had shot himself in the head with a BB gun."

Must have been a relative of the guy who shot himself in the foot.

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 24, 2008

"12:47 p.m.: A woman on the 200 block of Mount Diablo Avenue reported that she was in a loud argument with her husband. Her husband could be heard screaming that she was going to beat him over the phone."

Why couldn't she beat him with him lying on the sofa or floor? Why did she have to pick the phone???

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 24, 2008

I'll leave the rest of the entries for Concerned Parents to comment. smilies/wink.gif

...

written by Nicki , July 24, 2008

10:04 a.m.: A stray dog was chased out of the 99-Cent Store on the 100 block of West 11th Street.

I knew my ex hubby would show up here someday smilies/tongue.gif

...

written by Concerned Parents , July 24, 2008

Thanks-fortheunderdog.

10:04 a.m.: A stray dog was chased out of the 99-Cent Store on the 100 block of West 11th Street.

In this difficult economy all customers should be treated like gold!

...

written by Concerned Parents , July 24, 2008

9:08 a.m.: A panhandler was reported on the north side of City Hall, 300 Civic Center Plaza.

Please people, let Ives have his fundraiser without reporting him to the cops!

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 24, 2008

Concerned Parents,

I think you've started a fad here. Now I'll have something to do with the police logs. Thanks again.

...

written by Concerned Parents , July 24, 2008

2:31 p.m.: An employee at the Gap Outlet store on the 100 block of Pescadero Avenue reported two people stealing clothes the day before.

A suspicious Gap in time was noticed in reporting the theft to the TPD.

...

written by Concerned Parents , July 24, 2008

Thanks fortheunderdog but maybenotdumbcomment does not approve of you either now.

12:53 p.m.: A report of someone selling drugs out of a laundrymat was made at 200 East Street.

When interrogated customers said nothing.... just blew bubbles.

...

written by amy , July 24, 2008

You guys are so funny! So witty! Making light of dark moments without being insensitive, great ones!

Thanks for the laughs!

-amy

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 24, 2008

amy,

I think Concerned Parents and myself are trying really hard not to be too serious in our funny comments. It's just a way to let off a little stress without, like you said, being insensitive. It's really easy to play off of the way the writer posts these incidents. Sometimes just one word will change the whole outlook.

I did read in another Police Blotter blog that maybenotdumBcommentT chastised Concerned Parents for his/her comment. Just want to let maybenotdumBcommentT know that we're not serious in our posts.

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 24, 2008

"8:53 p.m.: A man on the 200 block of Amatchi Drive called saying that he had been bitten by a small dog."

The 6'7", 260 lb man said the 4 lb chihuahua eventually ran back to its owner after being unable to reach his knees.

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 24, 2008

"7:14 p.m.: Someone on the 500 block of Cumberland Drive reported lights being stolen off his house."

The homeowner also told police that the crime was committed during nighttime hours when the lights were on making it easy for the thieves to see what they were doing.

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 24, 2008

Osama Bin Laden was reportedly seen in Tracy training with other guerillas using weapons that did not make much sound. Photos were later posted on the Al Kada (see, not offending) website.

"3:07 p.m.: Someone on the 500 block of Presidio Place reported three men shooting a BB gun in front of a yard. One of the men was wearing a black ski mask, and another was taking pictures."

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 24, 2008

"12:53 p.m.: A report of someone selling drugs out of a laundrymat was made at 200 East Street."

Tracy Press reporter who discovered contiguous in the dictionary unable to correctly spell laundramat.

...

written by Former Tracyite , July 24, 2008

I love it. Keep them coming! I haven't laughed this hard in a long time.

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 24, 2008

"2:26 p.m.: A woman called and reported her purse stolen at the Starbucks on 500 West Clover Road."

Advice: Next time put your latte down and not your purse.

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 24, 2008

"2:16 p.m.: A woman on the 200 block of North MacArthur Drive called to say her ex-boyfriend's brother was stealing some of her things while she was packing."

Never, never, date your boyfriends brother.

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 24, 2008

"3:22 p.m.: Two children were reported driving go-karts recklessly in the street with no helmets on Baigorry Street and Roger Drive."

The two drivers of the go-karts outdrove TPD responding units as they passed Marks Do-Nuts.

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 24, 2008

"9:08 a.m.: A panhandler was reported on the north side of City Hall, 300 Civic Center Plaza."

On Tuesday morning, Brent Ives was approached by TPD while walking to work.

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 24, 2008

"11:13 a.m.: A man on the 800 block of Clover Road reported that his girlfriend had stolen car rims that he had listed for sale."

The caller failed to say that the car he had listed For Sale actually belonged to his girlfriend.

...

written by Dave Hardesty , July 24, 2008

#1 rule in gun safety. You treat all guns as if they are loaded before you start to handle them.

#2. The first thing you do when you pick up a gun or have it handed to you by someone else, you treat it as loaded until you visually inspect it and ensure it is loaded.

#3. Regardless if you know it's unloaded, you treat all guns as if they are loaded.

If you follow these very basic and simple rules you will never get in trouble with a gun accidentally discharging and end up "Shooting yourself in the foot."

Folks, guns in and of themselves are not dangerous. A gun laying on the table, untouched by human hands is nothing more than a hunk of metal that may contain chemicals. It's not going to point itself at your foot and blow a nice hole in it unless you don't discipline yourselves to handle guns safely.

I know this gentleman has probably learned his lesson but unfortunately he learned it the hard way. Learn from his lesson and don't stupidly do it the way he did.

Oh, and we all do stupid things from time to time and I hope he recovers quickly. Look on the bright side, at least he didn't blow his head off or kill someone else. He got lucky this time.

Dave Hardesty

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 24, 2008

"3:18 p.m.: A man was arrested at Kavanagh Avenue and Lincoln Boulevard on three warrants."

Although it would have only take one warrant to arrest the man, TPD wanted to make sure he would stay out of Tracy hoping one of the warrants was out of Florida.

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 24, 2008

"I know this gentleman has probably learned his lesson but unfortunately he learned it the hard way."

I'll go further to say that he's probably been told to stay off of that foot for awhile to let it heal. If he had shot himself both feet, he wouldn't have a leg to stand on.

smilies/shocked.gif

...

written by tracymom , July 24, 2008

fortheunderdog....thank you for the laughs!! Those were awesome!

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 24, 2008

HAHA You're all welcome. Concerned Parents and myself are looking forward to the next police blotter.

...

written by maybenotdumBcommenT , July 24, 2008

Something happened in one of these logs that happened on my street on Thursday. Unfortunately you all don't know that back story. If you did you would probably be upset if this stuff was happening to you, so I don't think your snappy little comments are funny, no.

ftud, you were a cop, you should know there is more to these one liners then meets the eye.

It sounds as if some of them are ridiculous but I know one here isn't and I suspect if you keep on going down the line you will get a jolly good laugh at someone else's expense. Just because they don't look serious doesn't mean they aren't to these people. Laugh on you all, I won't be a part of it.

...

written by bla , July 24, 2008

The written posts are a nice change from all the negative comments, thanks for the laugh. There is nothing wrong with making light of a situation as long as that person wasn't seriously hurt or the person blogging is purposely being vindictive. My father accidently shot his leg cleaning a rifle when he was 16 and back then they could not save it. As a child he had told me a bear ate it... I did not live with my real father and it wasn't until my teens that I found out what really happened. He and I got a good laugh out of it. Somehow a little humor lightened the situation. I look forward to your next bit of wit, thanks again...

...

written by maybenotdumBcommenT , July 24, 2008

bla, I'm sure it was really funny when your father lost his leg at the time. Was his nickname Gimpy or Black Bart. Was he a pirate on Halloween. At 16 that was probably traumatic. Of course it's funny now, thats easy, because he's gotten use to it. Good for you.

...

written by bla , July 25, 2008

Yeah he thought it hilarious at the time. You never get use to it you just have to deal with it. That remark was uncalled for. Look at it this way. These police logs give very little detail and no names. You are correct is stating we do not know the situation so why get so upset if someone wants to use their imagination and extend the event. If your neighborhood story was headline and was a heartbreaking story I believe ftud would not make light of it. At least I have never read that in his comments. I think in todays hard times you need a sense of humor. You have a right to your opinion but you don't have to get nasty about it!

...

written by maybenotdumBcommenT , July 25, 2008

What about the families you all are making fun of. That seems nasty to them. That was the point I was making. Yes, my story made headline news and now we are dealing with the after affects. The police logs are meant to be short so you can see they are working. They don't put all of the incidents in. I sure wish I could tell you my story. If it comes out again , I'll say, this is it. I apologize for my nasty comments. It was in bad taste but, and I mean right at this moment my neighborhood is under siege by a few punks and we are overly sensitive even when the AT&T guy shows up, even tho we are expecting him. The worst is that an innocent pet has been hurt and to the tune of 500 bucks. Bashed in car windows, messed up mail boxes. Driving on our lawns. They are jerks and we are trying to do something about it. We feel we are hostages in our own neighborhood so now we have the police helping us.

It could have been a totally different story if my encounter with the police had not been in here this very day. It just made me think of the story behind the scene. Grant it, some seem completely ridiculous.

Press on if you still feel the need to make jokes. I just wanted to put in my 35 cents. BTW, my father also had his leg amputated.

...

written by bla , July 25, 2008

I am sorry for the situation you are in. I have experienced the same thing several years back. It took over two years to remedy the problem. Hopefully yours won't take that long. As for the jokes I still see no problem with the previous comments and I look forward to reading something funny verses all the depressing news when I open the newspaper or turn on the TV.

...

written by maybenotdumBcommenT , July 25, 2008

Thanks bla but maybe it's not funny to the people it happens to.

...

written by mexican4life , July 25, 2008

dang T what happen to u?? y u under seige?

...

written by bla , July 25, 2008

mbndc, maybe its not funny to those people. You claim to be one of those people and obviously not happy. See, I do not know who those people are because it is just a blurb in the paper. And then again maybe it is funny to those people. Until those other people start writing in to say they are offended by the humor, I am looking forward to a little laughter.

...

written by maybenotdumBcommenT , July 25, 2008

mexican4life, I think some people get off on other peoples hurt like what you mentioned about the family that lost everyone in the canal. personally I felt sick and their loss and of course no one outwardly made fun of it, but last check I didn't see any, "I'm so sorry for your Families loss" either. Maybe someone has put one in by now.

bla, you got to be kidding me. Keep on trying to justify it.

...

written by bla , July 26, 2008

Nope not kidding. From what I have recently read on the other logs, it is you who keeps trying validate your complaints. It is obvious no one agrees with your debate so quit being so stubborn and leave it alone. I know you tend to like the last word, so go for it. smilies/grin.gif

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 27, 2008

bla,

No way. I'm going to take the bait! smilies/wink.gif smilies/wink.gif

"2:16 p.m.: A woman on the 200 block of North MacArthur Drive called to say her ex-boyfriend's brother was stealing some of her things while she was packing."

If she was "packing", why didn't she draw her weapon and tell him to give her things back?

=====

Re:Police logs and blotters all in on place

Posted by maybenotdumBcommenT - 2008/07/29 18:36

written by fortheunderdog , July 24, 2008

"7:39 a.m.: Someone reported a man masturbating near Tracy Boulevard and Whispering Wind Drive. The man had his pants down and was walking with two girls."

He could do this and WALK too?

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 24, 2008

"9:59 a.m.: Someone on Sycamore Parkway and Schulte Road found a 2-year-old boy walking with a dog. They stayed with the boy until his mom arrived."

Ok, where was TPD? Where was CPS?

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 24, 2008

"10:31 a.m.: Police arrested two men for conspiracy and possession of drugs for sale on the 100 block of Pilgrim Court in Lathrop."

Uh, isn't this supposed to be about Tracy?

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 24, 2008

"1:35 p.m.: A woman at In Shape Health Club at 101 N. Tracy Boulevard reported her car window smashed and her purse stolen."

You should know that this business is notorious for car break-ins. And why did you leave you purse in the car in plain sight in the first place?

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 24, 2008

"3:36 p.m.: A caller from Artesian Health Food at 1250 W. 11th St. complained of a man waving his arms and scaring customers."

Person dressed in chicken costume and advertising on the street for local business scares customers buying organic goods.

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 24, 2008

"4:21 p.m.: A woman called to say she feared that her violent-tempered daughter might be waiting for her inside her house on Locust Street."

Hey mom, it's time to kick her out.

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 24, 2008

A Tracy Press photographer was taking photos today of the soon to be built Tracy Intermodal Transit Station. TITS

"5:05 p.m.: Someone in the area of Sixth Street and Central Avenue reported a man who has been repeatedly stepping out into traffic and taking pictures of cars."

...
written by fortheunderdog , July 24, 2008
Ok, got to leave some for Concerned Parents.

...
written by bookworm , July 24, 2008
ROFL!!! Love the added insight. I've always thought the TP Police Blotter was for comedic purposes.

Did I totally miss the blurb or article on the shots fired at West Valley Mall on Monday?! I've been looking and haven't seen anything. I would think that would be some concern to the police department, citizens, councilmen, etc. Hmmm? Maybe I just missed it....

...
written by mark j , July 24, 2008
I don't usually comment on the police log, but man, people need to get a clue. Do not leave ANYTHING of value in you car if it's not concealed! Most thieves are cowards, they do not want confrontation, they are creatures of opportunity. I will not even leave an envelope in my car that is in sight. Don't give these pieces of st the opportunity and you will not become another victim. be smarter that they are!

...
written by fortheunderdog , July 24, 2008

"5:05 p.m.: Someone in the area of Sixth Street and Central Avenue reported a man who has been repeatedly stepping out into traffic and taking pictures of cars."

In addition to the above comment. It is said that a bust of Ives will be placed in the rotunda of the transit station. Meanwhile, city council members are trying to stay abreast of nearby cities that also have a transit station with no train arrivals or departures. While the city won't call this a complete bust, plans are underway to uplift the rest of the Bowtie Area.

...
written by fortheunderdog , July 24, 2008
"1:03 p.m.: Someone reported a man named Ralph threatening to throw a 12-volt battery at them on the 500 block of Gonzalez Street."

Everyone in the city should change their name to Ralph.
If they did the blog might look like this.

Ralph called the police today to complain about Ralph threatening to throw a 12v battery at him. His neighbor, Ralph, intervened and took the battery away from Ralph. Ofc Ralph, of TPD, arrested Ralph for public drunkenness and thanked Ralph and Ralph for being such a big help.

...
written by fortheunderdog , July 24, 2008

9:02 a.m.: Someone on the 200 block of Lara Lane reported a garage break-in and a global position system and tools stolen."

The property owner will be unable to locate his GPS.

...
written by fortheunderdog , July 24, 2008
"4:02 p.m.: Someone reported a man named Ralph threatening to throw a 12-volt battery at them on the 500 block of Gonzalez Street. They said "œRalph" was going to kill them."

Hey, at 1:03 Ralph had the same battery that Ralph took away from him while Ralph called the police.

...
written by fortheunderdog , July 24, 2008
"5:12 p.m.: A parent at Alden Park on the 500 block of Sequoia Boulevard reported a 16-year-old son drunk in the park."

The parents of a 16 yr old drunk male called local Tracy gangs telling them that Alden Park was available for "tagging". The 16 yr old boy is now property of XIV, Nortenos, Sorenos, SST, ABT, and NST gangs.

...
written by fortheunderdog , July 24, 2008

Maybe the caller wasn't notified that there was a sanctioned boxing match at Cecilian Park.

"5:18 p.m.: A woman reported a fight in progress at Cecilian Park at 1600 Cypress Drive."

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 24, 2008

"9 p.m.: A woman at the West Valley Mall, 3200 Naglee Road, reported that all four of her tires were slashed. Right before her phone died, she said she had to go to the hospital."

I'm assuming that the woman is ok, but it's better the cell phone than her.

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 24, 2008

"9:26 p.m.: A man on the 100 block of Montauban Street reported his landlord saying that he was going to go over to his house and "blow his brains out with a shotgun."

Now this would ruin your day.

...

written by LAM , July 24, 2008

written by fortheunderdog , July 24, 2008

A Tracy Press photographer was taking photos today of the soon to be built Tracy Intermodal Transit Station. TITS fortheunderdog, I definitely got a laugh from this one (like all the others!).

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 24, 2008

Thanks LAM,

Sometimes you just have to have an outlet for stress. smilies/grin.gif

...

written by Concerned Parents , July 24, 2008

9:07 a.m.: A report of kids swimming in a vacant house's pool was called in on the 400 block of Hawthorne.

ATTENTION ALL CHILDREN- NOW YOU KNOW WHERE A VACANT HOME IS WITH A POOL! Don't forget your blow-up toys.

...

written by Concerned Parents , July 24, 2008

7:24 p.m.: Someone on the 900 block of Cobalt Drive reported a 16-year-old brother hitting people, wearing brass knuckles and being "out of control."

What gave you the first clue that he was out of control?

...

written by Concerned Parents , July 24, 2008

5:39 p.m.: A man was arrested for outstanding warrants after a routine traffic stop at the Fry Memorial Chapel, 550 S. Central Ave.

He was driving a hearse.

...

written by Concerned Parents , July 24, 2008

Two men were arguing when one shot a pistol at the other at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday on the 100 block of East Ninth St.. One of the men limped from the scene, and the other was seen driving away in a white 1996 Tahoe.

Which one was limping?

...

written by eiEi0 , July 24, 2008

I can't believe no one has touched this one yet...

9:08 p.m.: A woman was bit by a dog on the 300 block of Rancho Way.

That dog just stood up and Bh slapped her or what?

...

written by Justin281gt , July 24, 2008

I'm just curious WTF is a possible shooting? Either someone was shot or not? If it takes more than a few seconds to figure this out we may need to look into some better qualified candidates for our police officers.

...

written by solar_biscuit , July 25, 2008

When will you people cancel your memberships to in-shape city?? The crime there will not stop until members make an impact on their bottom line!

...

written by Concerned Parents , July 25, 2008

solar_biscuit, can we cancel? What if we signed a 2 yr. contract w/IS? We would be happy to at least threaten to cancel if it would have any impact on the parking lot security.

...

written by amy , July 25, 2008

THANKS FOR THE HEARTY LAUGHS, LOVED YOUR THREE DAYS BLOG OF WITTY COMMENTS WITHOUT BEING INSENSITIVE!

-amy

...

written by maybenotdumBcommenT , July 25, 2008

Hey amy, you're a nurse, laugh at this. My response from police log on July 22.

written by maybenotdumBcommenT , July 25, 2008

Have any of you had a family or friend in a car accident? Well I have, 2. I remember sitting in the room where thy put families to wait so that when they come to tell you they died you won't upset the other people when you are screaming and crying from the shock.

Shame on you all.

...

written by amy , July 25, 2008

This is how I break my tension from work after seeing all that, myself, even nurses and doctors joke about the cases from time to time to break the tension, not actually talking about the patient and suffering, was joking about the "case". Not quiet the same thing?

I believe the jokes were based on the case of the calls, not actual suffering of the people. I don't find it insensitive. You may, though. My perception is different to keep us level headed in our profession. Otherwise there wouldn't be any nurses. It is stressful enough and we find the relief in joking about the "cases".

Thanks. I don't think anyone is ridiculing you, just seeing it differently, maybe?

-amy

...

written by maybenotdumBcommenT , July 25, 2008

amy, why don't you see the side of the families that may have been hurt in some of these cases. Go get a drink to relieve your tension. Your comment is the lamest excuse to kick someone when they are down.

...

written by amy , July 25, 2008

Just joked about how it was worded? I think so.

-amy

...

written by amy , July 25, 2008

Just gave my opinion, on the reasons jokes were made, not speaking for them, though.

I don't see jokes in the article covering crime, stabbings and so on, just the "wording" of the calls made room for jokes just on the "Police log" or list of calls.

Just my opinion.

PS I saw in the article, "Red, White and BBQ" that you mentioned that you were being ridiculed on the Police Log..... now really??

Others would have to chime in, just stated my opinion of what I see going on in this section.

-amy

-amy

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 25, 2008

"written by maybenotdumBcommenT , July 25, 2008

Have any of you had a family or friend in a car accident? Well I have, 2. I remember sitting in the room where thy put families to wait so that when they come to tell you they died you won't upset the other people when you are screaming and crying from the shock."

Look at what you have written then go back to the police articles we've joked about. I wouldn't even touch your article with a funny tone. You asked me in another blog how being a cop, where are my morals? I answered saying that I was serious when the time called for it and funny when it didn't. Like amy, different professions use humor to get thru the day. I also told you I was retired. I find no problem in re-writing police incidents if it doesn't hurt anyone. Nobody in those write ins are named. It's all generic.

Ok, here's another one you.

A doctor who performs colonoscopies sees you walking away from him/her in the mall and recognizes you by calling out your name.

I'm sure even doctors have their humorous sides. Lighten up.

...
written by fortheunderdog , July 25, 2008

Concerned Parents,

You can cancel your membership at anytime but remember, there is a clause in your contract that will fine you for early cancellation. I don't know what that fee would be but I'm sure it's costly.

...
written by fortheunderdog , July 25, 2008
Justin,

I would describe a "possible shooting" like this. The police get a report of loud "bangs" which sound like gunshots. Police arrive and can find no evidence, ie: empty casings, gunshot damage, etc. The loud bangs could have been M-80's or something similiar. Thus you have a "possible shooting" when you can't confirm or deny it has happened.

...
written by fortheunderdog , July 25, 2008
Anyway, I can't wait until the next Police Log is posted. smilies/tongue.gif

...
written by Concerned Parents , July 25, 2008
Amy-You are right in my case and I honestly assume all others, we are poking fun at the way the Police Log is written or sometimes what is not written.... and often at In Shape smilies/tongue.gif but never at the victims of crimes.

...
written by Concerned Parents , July 25, 2008
me too fortheunderdog. In fact....

1:15pm:. An anonymous caller reported that they were being ridiculed on the Police Log.

...
written by Former Tracyite , July 25, 2008
I personally find these jokes very amusing. Whoever writes the blotter is the one who makes it so easy to find humor. I think it would be pointless to sit around being angry about innocent jokes.

...
written by solar_biscuit , July 25, 2008
Concerned Parents-Yes you can cancel, My wife did after witnessing a drug deal in the parking lot and many other patrons getting their cars broken into. It has gotten much worse since then! You will probably get a penalty, but if you tell them WHY you are quitting, they will get the point after several cancellations! The penalty is worth it to make them take notice!! Take your business to a place that cares! If you don't tell them why, they will never get the picture.

...
written by solar_biscuit , July 25, 2008
If Ralph can carry around a 12v car battery for 3 hours.....I wouldn't mess with him! Batteries are hella heavy!

...
written by maybenotdumBcommenT , July 25, 2008

Ok, here's another one you.

A doctor who performs colonoscopies sees you walking away from him/her in the mall and recognizes you by calling out your name.

I'm sure even doctors have their humorous sides. Lighten up.

This isn't a police matter ftud. You all are getting off on other peoples pain an misery. I hope you have sweet dreams tonight. All of you.

...

written by maybenotdumBcommentT , July 25, 2008

written by fortheunderdog , July 25, 2008

written by maybenotdumBcommentT , July 25, 2008

Have any of you had a family or friend in a car accident? Well I have, 2. I remember sitting in the room where thy put families to wait so that when they come to tell you they died you won't upset the other people when you are screaming and crying from the shock."

Look at what you have written then go back to the police articles you've joked about. I wouldn't even touch your article with a funny tone. You asked me in another blog how being a cop, where are my morals? I answered saying that I was serious when the time called for it and funny when it didn't. Like amy, different professions use humor to get thru the day. I also told you I was retired. I find no problem in re-writing police incidents if it doesn't hurt anyone. Nobody in those write ins are named. It's all generic.

It's not generic to hem nor is the one I have in there. What I told you was a two sentence police log as well in the Tri-Valley Herald.. No one knew my father almost died and the Doctors said to prepare ourselves for the worst. you just don't know the whole story is what I'm saying. Haven't you seen blood and brains and guts everywhere? The average citizen has not.

You all keep up the good laughs. Karma gets you in the end. You all have to be pretty miserable people to make fun of other peoples pain. ftud, I can see you have compassion and you must of seen some horrible crap. Don't tell me you didn't shake your head at senseless crimes.

Grant it some of them are stupid, but which ones?

Sweet dreams.

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 25, 2008

"1:15pm:. An anonymous caller reported that they were being ridiculed on the Police Log."

Now this one is GREAT! I give it a 2 thumbs up!

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 25, 2008

"If Ralph can carry around a 12v car battery for 3 hours.....I wouldn't mess with him! Batteries are hella heavy!"

OMG! Now we've turned solar into a re-write fanatic!

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 25, 2008

maybenotdumBcommentT wrote: "This isn't a police matter ftud. You all are getting off on other peoples pain an misery. I hope you have sweet dreams tonight. All of you."

I never said it was a police matter mndc. It was you who criticized me when you said something to the effect "being a cop, where are your morals". This was written by you in another blog. I'm only telling you that this is the way most "cops" handle the stress of the job. Almost ALL cops have a warped sense of humor. I used the word warped to justify your belief that we're somehow insensitive. If my humor isn't to your liking you can comment however you please, it won't affect me in any way.

In regards to your snide comment about having sweet dreams....I do sleep fairly well, but I occasionally have dreams/nightmares of seeing deceased persons who committed suicide, children shot in the head, battered spouses, abused children, deceased drivers of vehicle collisions, and victims of elder abuse. I've helped those who needed help, comforted those who needed comforting, and arrested those who pray on the weak. So why don't you give me a break and lighten up.

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 25, 2008

I know how you are about correct spelling so a correction is in order. "pray" should be "prey".

Have a nice day.

...

written by maybenotdumBcommenT , July 25, 2008

I believe the jokes were based on the case of the calls, not actual suffering of the people. I don't find it insensitive. You may, though. My perception is different to keep us level headed in our profession. Otherwise there wouldn't be any nurses. It is stressful enough and we find the relief in joking about the "cases".

Get relief by exercising. Your excuses are boring.

Have you ever considered they might hear you. Try to act more professional then you will get my respect. You certainly don't have it now.

I have a stressful job to but I don't kick someone when they are already down. Now as far as the hard core prisoners They don't care. Oh I know a lot of you nurses go to the bars and drink, ya I've been pointed out which one are nurse. We have quite a few in Tracy out there who like the bottle. Ya the profession is stressful but so is mine. Nurses should uphold better standards then you are show inyr hre.

...

written by mexican4life , July 25, 2008

althought a lot of ppl do poke at the ppl that have got hurt, killed or have been victims of a crime..just like that story last week about the ppl that died (farmworkers) there were quite a few ppl saying that they deserve what that got for being here illegally, or that they didnt feel bad they lost there lifes etc

...

written by amy , July 25, 2008

Give us doctors and nurses a break! We do not discuss the patient or their case in their presense! We know they can hear anything that is being said in the same room with them, we even tell the visitors not to talk about anything negative in their comatose state! Come on now, you are just bit too fussy???

Give the medical profession a break!

Off to work!

-amy

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 25, 2008

to mexican4life,

I want you to know that the vehicle incident you are talking about was tragic for both parties. In no way, and I mean IN NO WAY, did I write anything in the TP about them being illegal. I did not even see the word illegal in the article. My grandkids are 1/2 Mexican and to disrespect other persons of Mexican descent would be hypocritical on my part.

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 25, 2008

MNDC,

"Get relief by exercising. Your excuses are boring."

I run, bicycle, and lift weights for exercise. If my "excuses" are boring to you so be it. I don't know you and don't owe you any explanation for what I do.

"Have you ever considered they might hear you. Try to act more professional then you will get my respect. You certainly don't have it now."

Who might hear me? Are you hearing voices right now mn/dc? If I were acting more professional, and still working, I'd have to say you're 5150 if I had to eval you. Don't want your respect, don't need your respect.

"I have a stressful job to but I don't kick someone when they are already down. Now as far as the hard core prisoners They don't care. Oh I know a lot of you nurses go to the bars and drink, ya I've been pointed out which one are nurse. We have quite a few in Tracy out there who like the bottle. Ya the profession is stressful but so is mine. Nurses should uphold better standards then you are show inyr hre."

Pray tell, what type of stressful job employs you?? You know what I used to do. What is it you do? C'mon now, don't hide behind your keyboard. Let's see now, so you're ok with joking about "hard core" prisoners? Hypocrite! Your hypothetical scenery about nurses going to bars to drink is quite funny. Nurses go to bars, sure. So do doctors, lawyers, judges, firefighters, police officers, custodians, security guards, gas attendants, retail clerks, secretaries, CEO's, computer programmers, and a slew of others. Your thinking is medieval to say the least.

...
written by Concerned Parents , July 25, 2008
Bartenders and cocktail waitresses go to bars too and apparently maybe not dumb comment or should I say maybe it really is a dumb comment after all goes to bars.

9:22 a.m.: 3 nurses reported that they were being stalked by a complainer while out for a drink at a local pub.

...
written by maybe not dumb comment , July 25, 2008
OK, I embellished the bar thing, I know a bartender. But I have been in one on occasion and they were pointed out to me. Drinking isn't my style, just a toddy once in a while.

Keep trying harder to convince yourselves you are not hurting anyone. You get to sleep on it.

...
written by maybe not dumb comment , July 25, 2008
ftud, I have mentioned my profession before, I'm a teacher of the very young.

...
written by for the underdog , July 25, 2008

MNDC,

I don't drink although I have been to Chili's and Applebee's where there is a bar and I could care less if there was a "professional" in there sipping a cold one.

11:30 p.m.: A non-drinker was seen staggering from Applebee's after drinking one-to-many iced teas.

...
written by amy , July 26, 2008
MNDC.....Must be close enough to the bartender to get him/her to point anyone out to you, that is really weird! Since I don't drink, (do you know what alcohol does to you?) First sign... "impaired judgement".... must be a whopper of "toddy"?

Sugar, alcohol, then formaldehyde, that is how they break down... in your body, too. Terrible for people with diabetes!

Biking is great for de-stressing.. for me. Try it, might get you outside sometime?

Good jokes, keep them rolling!

-amy

...
written by maybe not dumb comment , July 26, 2008
sorry amy, I don't need to go to the bars to get them pointed out to me but with your crack pot investigative skills see if you can figure it out.

...
written by amy , July 26, 2008
That attitude of yours is what you own, not going to let it bother me.

Just going to keep enjoying reading the jokes!

-amy

...

written by amy , July 26, 2008

This is the "case: we talked about:

Once a nurse walked into the room, not realizing the patient was the only amputee in the room, she picked up his prosthetic, and asked him, "if it was his?" It was a "Duh" moment for her and we joked about the event, not the patient. The patient graciously said that "if it fits it might be his". Even the patient had the humor to put her at ease!!! Thank God for people with humor like them, they make our work easier.

-amy

...

written by amy , July 26, 2008

We do not "get off" on any patients suffering, broken bodies, and we have seen enough to go insane over, you ever see intestines being torn out in car accidents, bodies torn in half, from crashing into the sides of the rigs? Lighten up, this is one of the few reprieves I can get from work, a light moment of playing on words.

Suffering is not a joke, wording of it is a different matter.

Me thinks you are taking it too seriously??? Take Prozac? Or go biking?

Have fun with your life!

If I were drawing up a list to invite people, I can see whom I would want to invite to my parties in the future. BYOB since I don't serve alcohol.

-amy

...

written by amy , July 26, 2008

Just thinking about one case, where the patient lost lower part of his face due to car accident, missing a jaw and cheek bone. Had to be tube fed.... long and slow recovery, his healing was an inspiration to us, showed us his courage, he is fine now, doing great, used his rib and part of his hip bone to reconstruct his face. These are the thoughts that kept popping up in my head, just like PTS for us nurses.

We walk away feeling inspired, dispirited, discouraged, sad at a loss of life, disheartened after taking so much verbal abuse from demanding patients, feeling the joy at the success of healing. Now a play on words, or puns are not so bad? Gotta dump the emotional baggage that follows us nurses, doctors, cops and so on... home. Turn on the TV, doom and gloom... ugh.

This is refreshing. THANK YOU!

-amy

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 26, 2008

amy,

All of you in the medical field do a great job. I am especially grateful for doctors and nurses (not going to say where because it will give away who I am) who worked so hard on me. When I was working I always preached "Never give up". It seemed to work for me this time.

Don't treat me as if I'm going to die, treat me as if I'm going to live.

...

written by maybenotdumBcommenT , July 26, 2008

ftud, I want you to know I know a lot of cops in town and they know me. They don't know my moniker however. Don't you ever wonder why I stick up for them. These cops go on these runs to find situations that could be more dangerous than told here. Making a joke of it all seems in bad taste to me. And as a cop, you know the list the newspaper gets is very brief. But go ahead and keep it up with the funnies, because I was stating how it made me feel and realized there was more to it than the people that were involved. I hope you aren't the person I think you are but that doesn't really matter anyway here on these blogs where we choose to be anonymous. Have a good one.

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 26, 2008

MNDC,

I am so glad that you know many officers in this town and that they know you. Unlike you, I won't stick up for a fellow officer, or department, if I feel what they're doing is not in the best interest of the citizen or the department. You're absolutely right that what is printed in the "police log" isn't the dangerous crimes officers have to deal with. You can think of me however you please. Yes, these blogs do tend to make the real person "invisible". You don't know me and I don't know you. Thank you and you have a good one also.

...
written by maybenotdumBcommentT , July 26, 2008

I never said I stuck up for the corrupt ones. I wanted you to know that They work hard even with the little cases. Seems they are getting slammed here too for their work and they put their lives in danger all the time. You know that. People can be hot headed.

...
written by fortheunderdog , July 27, 2008

Like every law enforcement agency there are going to be good, mediocre, and bad cops. What I've seen of TPD leads me to believe that this agency falls more into the category between good and mediocre. I have had experience with TPD where they would not take a report for a serious crime. They hem and hawed to me about how they didn't think the crime would be carried through. WTF? So now they're clairvoyant? At the very least a information only report should have been written, the Subject/ should have been contacted for statement, and all of this would have been a 3 pager. Not much to write for the first 2 pages, the 3rd page would have been a narrative. Contact with the SJ/ could have been done via cell phone. The entire report would have taken 30 mins to write. A report of this nature would have been a CYA (cover you *ss) report by the officer in the event the crime occurred later. Tracy PD kisses off these reports and I'd like to know why? Is it through their FTO training or some directive handed down by command staff to lessen the amount of paperwork. I am not the only one who has had negative contact with TPD. Since you seem to be so close to them, maybe that's why you stick up for them. To me, if they're not taking paper then they should be out combatting other issues like...there should not be any gangs in Tracy, graffiti should be eradicated permanently, or theft should be nada in this city. Just what are they doing? I'd like to support our local police but they, in turn, also have to support the residents of this city. At this time I don't think they're accomplishing that.

...
written by maybenotdumBcommentT , July 27, 2008

there should not be any gangs in Tracy, graffiti should be eradicated permanently, or theft should be nada in this city.

You need to move where Spiderman lives because every city has these crimes.

I guess you could say I get special treatment, because I respect what they do. As long as I have lived here they have been short staffed so we work it out with them. You do what you have to do. Tracy Police keep up the good work.

...
written by maybenotdumBcommentT , July 27, 2008

I really like to swim at In-Shape. What about you ftud? Just curios.

...
written by Former Tracyite , July 28, 2008

Can we say CREEPY? maybenotdumBcommentT is really starting to frighten me. Why does he want to know how people sleep at night? That is really none of your business. smilies/smiley.gif

...
written by Former Tracyite , July 28, 2008

I mean, what's with the swimming comment. smilies/shocked.gif

=====

Re:Police logs and blotters all in on place

Posted by maybenotdumBcommentT - 2008/07/29 18:42

written by Concerned Parents , July 25, 2008

12:42 p.m.: A report of a heavily smoking chimney was made near Central Avenue and Mount Diablo Avenue. The smoke was later determined to be from a funeral home's crematory.

Okay, that's just sad and gross.

...
written by Concerned Parents , July 25, 2008

1:13 p.m.: A woman reported someone tagging a fence on the 200 block of Lincoln.

And they were heard yelling "you're it"

...
written by Concerned Parents , July 25, 2008

9:59 p.m.: Six calls were made concerning a group of loud swimmers on the 100 block of Golden Leaf Lane.

No pool was involved, they were playing hockey.

...

written by Concerned Parents , July 25, 2008

I'm going to a bar smilies/smiley.gif your turn fortheunderdog

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 25, 2008

Concerned Parents,

1:13 p.m.: A woman reported someone tagging a fence on the 200 block of Lincoln.

And they were heard yelling "you're it"

This one was good!

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 25, 2008

"10:45 p.m.: Three suspected Norteno gang members were loitering and being loud near Beechnut Avenue and Sequoia Boulevard."

Gee, I'm surprised the caller had the guts to make this call.

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 25, 2008

The paper reported that a man and a woman were having sexual relations in their backyard. Unfortunately, they later discovered it wasn't their house when they tried to enter what they thought was their back door.

"10:43 p.m.: A resident reported suspicious noises coming from the backyard and thought someone was at the back door on the 200 block of Forest Hills Drive."

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 25, 2008

"11:47 p.m.: A woman on the 800 block of Constitution Way reported someone in a truck spinning around in her lawn and almost hitting her house."

Hey, next time grab the 870 and blow their tires out.

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 25, 2008

"11:52 p.m.: Two reports were made of a 2001 Ford Explorer driving on people's lawns on the 400 block of Buena Tierra Drive."

See comment above for the correct answer.

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 25, 2008

"11:52 p.m.: A caller reported that a man choked a woman and kicked her out of his truck on the 700 block of Tom Fowler Court. When the caller went to call 9-1-1, the man got out of his truck and choked her again while the woman yelled for him not to kill her."

Ok, this one isn't funny. I'm assuming that the woman knows this spineless jerk and had a police report taken seeking prosecution against the male for 242. This woman abuser needs to be taken off the streets. What a coward for choking a female. What's the matter buddy? You beat up on females because other males will kick your A$$?

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 25, 2008

"9:59 p.m.: Six calls were made concerning a group of loud swimmers on the 100 block of Golden Leaf Lane."

Whew! It was just a small group of Tracy Triton's practicing before the 10:00 p.m. curfew. They can't wait for the city to make a deal with Surland for building rights so they can get that aquatics park.

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 25, 2008

"7:21 p.m.: A man was reported to be drunk and yelling at the intersection of Ninth Street and Taft Avenue."

Must have been a "professional" coming home from a bar.

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 25, 2008

"6:27 p.m.: A woman at a gas station on the corner of Grant Line Road and Holly Drive said she dropped a $100 bill and saw another woman pick it up. When the woman asked for her money back, the other woman drove off with it."

What's that old saying? Finders keepers, losers weepers.

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 25, 2008

"An 82-year-old man was gardening in his yard Thursday when he was approached by a man and woman, who pulled a gun on him and demanded that he drive them to a hardware store.

He drove the man to Ace Hardware, at 2695 N. Tracy Boulevard, while the woman followed in a different car. The couple also robbed the man of his money and then had him drive back to his house on Lahola Court."

ALERT! IF ANYBODY KNOWS THESE TWO SUSPECTS, CALL THE TRACY POLICE DEPARTMENT. YOU CAN REMAIN ANONYMOUS BY CALLING THE BELOW TELEPHONE NUMBER. THIS VICTIM COULD HAVE BEEN YOUR RELATIVE. DON'T LET THESE TWO GET AWAY WITH THIS.

Tracy Police Crimestoppers Tip-Line: (209) 831-6847

...

written by Concerned Parents , July 25, 2008

written by fortheunderdog , July 25, 2008

"7:21 p.m.: A man was reported to be drunk and yelling at the intersection of Ninth Street and Taft Avenue."

Must have been a "professional" coming home from a bar.

Good one... hiccup.

smilies/cheesy.gif smilies/cheesy.gif smilies/cheesy.gif smilies/shocked.gif smilies/shocked.gif smilies/shocked.gif

...

written by amy , July 26, 2008

Just as great as ever, keep up the great humor! Loved it!!!! smilies/cheesy.gif

...

written by amy , July 26, 2008

1:13 p.m.: A woman reported someone tagging a fence on the 200 block of Lincoln.

How much is the fence being sold for?

...

written by Steve Reshakis , July 26, 2008

who pulled a gun on him and demanded that he drive them to a hardware store.

if this ever happens, just crash into another car at an intersection, and get out of the car with the keys...there will be many eye witnesses..and the Cops will be called. the crooks will run and there will be many people who can follow them untill the poliece catch up and then they will be charged with Felony Kiddnapping with a Gun enhancement thats about 20 years.

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 26, 2008

Steve,

Great advice but not many people will think that fast to make it happen. One of the suspects was reported to be following in another car. All the other one would have to do is get into the other car and take off. Most witnesses will not remember enough information to give police. It is a great idea though and hopefully people reading these blogs will remember what you said and put it into action IF this ever happens to them.

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 26, 2008

Concerned Parents,

I think you've snagged amy into adding her thoughts. smilies/grin.gif

...

written by maybenotdumBcommenT , July 26, 2008

Maybe we should all get our cars to start crashing by themselves when they are in danger.

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 26, 2008

MNDC,

Be real now. If you're taken hostage and you're the one driving you don't have to literally crash into another car, you can just run your car up over a curb and blow out a tire.

But wait, let's have a little fun.

"Maybe we should all get our cars to start crashing by themselves when they are in danger."

MNDC suggests that we all start our cars, put them in "drive" (1st gear if yours is manual) and let them crash by themselves. At least they'll be sleeping alone.

Get it..."crash by themselves"?

smilies/wink.gif

...

written by amy , July 26, 2008

Cars are "crashing", call for Code Blue! smilies/wink.gif

-amy

...

written by amy , July 26, 2008

Bring the "crash" cart!!! smilies/wink.gif

-amy

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 26, 2008

amy,

If it's only a dead battery, will a defib work at getting it restarted? smilies/wink.gif

...

written by amy , July 26, 2008

smilies/cheesy.gif Haven't tried that!! But you could "revive" the car by "Juice" transfusion from an healthy car!smilies/wink.gif

-amy

...

written by amy , July 26, 2008

11:28 PM... Crashing car called the cops to complain that commentors are ridiculing it...

(fictional) smilies/wink.gif

-amy

...

written by maybenotdumBcommenT , July 26, 2008

ftud, now did I say to crash into another car? NO.

"Maybe we should all get our cars to start crashing by themselves when they are in danger."

That is what I said.

Crashing ftud is retarded. oops I'm bad.

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 26, 2008

" just crash into another car" submitted by Steve Reshakis

MNDC,

When I said to you "you don't have to literally crash into another car" it was a response to what Steve Reshakis said. I was trying to reiterate to you that you do not have to crash into another car. Oh forget it, I don't thing you're going to understand this either.

...
written by fortheunderdog , July 26, 2008

amy,

The "juice" method of yours may work but like blood transfusions, what guarantee do I have that my car won't contract a STD from the donor fluid? smilies/cheesy.gif

...
written by amy , July 26, 2008

Stalling Troublesome Discs? Let me get back to you on that, take two aspirin tonight and call the doctor in the morning! smilies/wink.gif

-amy

...
written by maybenotdumBcommenT , July 26, 2008

ftud, really can't deny that it is addressed to me now can you. Go ahead and forget it. Be my guest because you and all of the others who have made fun these last few days will tire of it and I will defend myself as long as I know I'm right. When I'm not I admit it to. amy, if you are as young as has been eluded you will feel like a j__ka years from now if you are still a nurse. You are going to wonder why you said such stupid things. ftud is angry because he's crippled, I don't know why you are acting so immature. Concerned Parents, man I hope you don't really have kids. If they ever knew you were making fun of these people what will you say. Grant it, some are not real but some are implicated with these logs.ftud, very nice of you to tell everyone what to do if they see the idiots that harmed the 82 year old. Like we don't know. Trying to redeem yourself. Good job. Going in the right direction.

written by fortheunderdog , July 26, 2008
MNDC,

Be real now. If you're taken hostage and you're the one driving you don't have to literally crash into another car, you can just run your car up over a curb and blow out a tire.

You all have a good sleep now. I hope it is out of your system. But before you sleep, check out all the stupid comments you all made on the police logs these last two days. You should see how it looks the second time around. Very childish and hurtful. You never insulted me on what happened to me this week. I'm glad for that or maybe one of the lucky ones.

...
written by Cokeman , July 26, 2008

written by fortheunderdog , July 25, 2008

The paper reported that a man and a woman were having sexual relations in their backyard. Unfortunately, they later discovered it wasn't their house when they tried to enter what they thought was their back door.

Tried to enter the wrong back door? Sounds like somebody was tryin to do a little swinging to me.

...
written by Concerned Parents , July 26, 2008
MNDC needs a big hug!

HUG

Everyone join in! smilies/cry.gif

...
written by maybenotdumBcommenT , July 26, 2008

Concerned Parents Your kids will need a shrink. Any volunteers?

...
written by Concerned Parents , July 26, 2008

Thanks MNDC but no need for volunteers we can afford shrinkage ourselves... stimulus check and all.

Cokeman-that story has a whole other meaning in Greece. smilies/cool.gif Oh and MNDC is still waiting 4 a HUG.

...
written by fortheunderdog , July 26, 2008
mndc wrote: "ftud is angry because he's crippled"

I am not crippled. I have friends who are physically challenged and they find that word insulting. You should be ashamed of yourself.

...
written by fortheunderdog , July 26, 2008
"12:42 p.m.: A report of a heavily smoking chimney was made near Central Avenue and Mount Diablo Avenue."

I tell ya, even at $5 a pack for cigarettes, nothing will deter people from finding a place to smoke.

...
written by fortheunderdog , July 26, 2008
"1:13 p.m.: A woman reported someone tagging a fence on the 200 block of Lincoln."

Early Mervyn's shoppers found that the price tag for that section of fence was discounted to $3.99

...
written by fortheunderdog , July 26, 2008
"I hope it is out of your system."

Nope.

...
written by fortheunderdog , July 26, 2008
"But before you sleep, check out all the stupid comments you all made on the police logs these last two days. You should see how it looks the second time around."

Ok, I looked at it for the second time around and it looks the same as it did the first time around. smilies/grin.gif

...
written by bookworm , July 27, 2008
MNDC has a stick up his/her bum! Get off your high horse. If you don't like the comments...then get off the site! Personally, I think the police blotter - between the lines - comments are the best darn part of the Tracy Press! To those Tracyites that have truly had misfortunes, like the poor man that was taken hostage...very sad and very scary. But come on... a dog running lose in the 99 cent store... now tell me that wasn't there for a laugh. MNDC you must think they're a little funny if you've read them twice. smilies/wink.gif

...
written by bookworm , July 27, 2008
A woman said her brother had assaulted her on the 100 block of Lahola Court.

Hmmm... maybe he didn't like the items she had the 82 year old take her to Vans for. Her and the 82 year old man should hook up and beat the brothers butt for assaulting a woman and the elderly!

...
written by maybenotdumBcommentT , July 27, 2008
Wow! You all really are empty headed adults with nothing better to do. Well be my guest and continue with your juvenile behavior.

I used the word "crippled" as an example of how you are hurting other peoples feelings. Not mine at all but the real victims in these logs. I also don't feel sorry for you all but your real character is showing and it is out there for eveybody to see. People like you don't lose sleep. The stories ran out and I gave you ammunition to continue on, I knew that in the first place. i see you are all a hopeless cause.

...
written by maybenotdumBcommentT , July 27, 2008
BTW, you don't know it but I am getting the last laugh here. smilies/grin.gif I love it

...
written by amy , July 27, 2008
Okay, MNDC, take this comment section and take it to your minister, let him read everything and your comments, too, tell us what he thinks????? Today is Sunday? Right?

Your minister does laugh?

What you said about fortheunderdog was really low!!! That was truly low of you! Just take this to your minister and see if he agrees with you?????

-amy

...
written by amy , July 27, 2008
By the way who appointed you to sit in on judgement of us??? Judge yourself first? You seem to be too self righteous and those kinds of people I stay away from, very pessimic group, too!!!

Shame on you for being "cruel" to fortheunderdog.

-amy

...

written by maybenotdumBcommenT , July 27, 2008

amy, I was pointing out how hurtful words can be. You missed the lesson. I apologize ftud. I will apologize to God.

...

written by amy , July 27, 2008

If you want God to forgive you you have to forgive others, too?

"Judge not, lest ye be judged?"

I lost my sweet, dear young husband along with two other pedestrians at the crosswalk due to drunk driver in New York 4 years ago, just too much painful memories and need the healing to start afresh!! I may be younger than you but I do know pain and suffering and feeling keenly the loss of a sweet spouse! Should I stop laughing, would he want me to? I don't think so because he loved to laugh!

-amy

LAM, now you see why I am not for alcohol!!!

...

written by amy , July 27, 2008

Just take this to your minister and let him guide you on the appropriation of humor and "judgements" it calls for??? Let him decide on your comments, too?

-amy

...

written by amy , July 27, 2008

Yes! I am a widow!!!

-amy

...

written by amy , July 27, 2008

Think I enjoy missing him, NO!!!!

-amy

...

written by maybenotdumBcommenT , July 27, 2008

amy, take it to your minister and see if your minister thinks it is funny that you are making fun of other peoples pain, I doubt it. I apologized to both. Now I know why you are hurting other peoples feelings. I would never want to be in your situation. People can get laughs, but not at others expense.

I have had more hurt then you know.

It is only a suggestion, but why don't you start a forum for a fake police log instead of using these ones in the news. That would be a great outlet for your loss and pain. The reason I am angry, or one of them, is that I had a log put in on one of these ones you all started joking about. I wouldn't have noticed otherwise. But I did notice it just started because the earlier police logs don't have all these hurtful comments. It is a go along with the crowd mentality. BTW, I drink once a month if I feel like it.

...

written by amy , July 27, 2008

Nope, was not sitting in on judgement of these people, you were, you need to take it to your minister.

I am sorry to hear that you have pain in your life, there are others much worse off than you are!!! Rejoice in what you have that is good in life! You are lucky you are not one of those bedridden victims, half body missing to the war, and lost spirit on his face. What kind of life is that???

I have my priorities in the right place, do you?

Not sure about that, awfully judgemental!

I read what I said and saw again nothing wrong with it, my roommate read nothing wrong with it but she has a "name" for you.

Kinder words would be, you are just too "meddlesome with your self righteous, judgemental attitude."d

Must be hard to live in this world for you since others have more positive attitude and have the sense to know when to be funny or not?

This sure seems to fascinate you since you kept returning to this blog, isn't that bit morbid?

-amy

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 27, 2008

amy,

I'm sorry for your loss. I had no idea you are a widow. My heart goes out to you.

I lost my mother June 8th of this year. She was 85 and suffering from Alzheimer's and dementia. For the past 1 1/2 yrs she had been bedridden and sleeping most of the day. When she did have her "good" days she still couldn't remember her 3 children. Unlike your situation, I could see the outcome of my mother's and I said my good byes 6 mos ago. It's making it much easier on me to deal with now. It was hard to see her like this. I know she is in a better place now.

Would she want me to give up my humorous ways? I don't think so. I was always the "joker" of the family and it carried over to the police dept. Like your job, we have to find some relief to all the miserable things happening most of the time. I'm sure you've seen death much more than I but seeing it just once is more than enough. It's the childrens deaths that are hard to take, especially if you have children.

Anyway, hope you have a nice Sunday. I'm going to my nextdoor neighbors for a birthday party for their daughter who turns 4 today. Besides clothes my wife and I bought for her, I PERSONALLY bought her a "bug jar" because she likes to pull the shells off of snails. smilies/cheesy.gif smilies/cheesy.gif

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 27, 2008

written by maybenotdumBcommenT , July 27, 2008

"BTW, you don't know it but I am getting the last laugh here. I love it."

Above writer probably read all the "extra" blurbs thrown in for their entertainment. smilies/shocked.gif

mndc,

What you said to amy was uncalled for and just plain rude. Now that you know her situation I'd bet you're going to try to backpedal to make amends. Remember what you, and all parents, said to their children, "Make a wise choice the first time because sometimes you can't take it back".

Although it appears you want to make peace, your apologies appear (to me) to sound half-hearted. Being what I was before I retired, I have a keen sense of intuition. I don't know you but I think you would be a person who I would not "hang out" with in a social setting. I'm sure, after reading our changes to the police log, you feel the same about me. That's up to you.

My, and Concerned Parents, joking on this blog was meant to be an innocent way of bringing a little humor to an already lousy society. It was not meant to be insensitive.

Have a good Sunday. Hope the coming week is good for you.

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 27, 2008

BTW....I will continue to find humor in the police logs when time permits.

...

written by amy , July 27, 2008

Thank you fortheunderdog, it was the most difficult year of my life, just didn't want to face the day or even get out of bed, really was depressed at the loss of my husband! It saddens me that I don't have a child by him.

People say, time heals all wounds, but this one was the longest wound I ever felt! I feel I am coping much better and handling life that my deceased husband would be proud of.

That is all I am going to say, memories revisits.

Thanks again, fortheunderdog. I am so sorry for the loss of your mother, she had a good long life and raised her kids well! Left legacy of humor for you!

-amy

...

written by maybenotdumBcommenT , July 27, 2008
amy, I doubt ftud would want me to feel sorry for him.

I wonder, should I tell you my dad had seizures his whole life and had his leg amputated. Or that my mother has Parkinson's and Alzheimer's, and emphezima,(but that is her own fault for smoking, right?). That I go to see her every day even tho she was a terrible mother because she was agoraphobic and always locked us out of the house and slept all day. Do you feel sorry for me yet? Not asking for pity here. When you mature you realize it wasn't their fault. I have a sense of humor. Like I laugh if I expel gas or tell a good joke . Sometimes I get a good joke from a friend thru email. I thank them for my daily smile. My father was the biggest jokester of all times. All us kids have it. We don't hurt other peoples feelings tho. And amy, why would your room mate not side with you? I could get my friends and say the same for me, duh.

...

written by maybenotdumBcommenT , July 27, 2008

The sorriest thing I ever felt just recently was my viet nam vet friend was over. I was having a package delivered. My friend has PTSD from that war. He saw the young mans darker arm and heard him talk. The guy had sunglasses on. My friend had a flashback right in front of me.

I've dressed people that have died to prepare them for the coroner. Seen a lot of blood.

We all have experiences. Being robbed directly hasn't been one of mine. Indirectly, ya.

I don't feel I have had it all that bad. It goes with living a normal life.

...

written by amy , July 28, 2008

fortheunderdog, I didn't mean that your mom just lived a good long life, I do know that you lost your "Mom" in the real sense when her sense of identity faded away along with her memories. Have seen so many hurting children stand around their "shell" of parents curled up in the bed, very small in size. Heart breaking.

I admire your courage fortheunderdog!

Just had too many memories to deal with yesterday.

Thank you.

-amy

...

written by Former Tracyite , July 28, 2008

7:21 p.m.: A man was reported to be drunk and yelling at the intersection of Ninth Street and Taft Avenue.

I wonder what the intersection did to him?

...

written by amy , July 28, 2008

smilies/cheesy.gif

That's good!

-amy

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 28, 2008

amy,

No need to apologize, I knew what you meant. You've got to remember, I've taken too many DUI's to the hospital lab to have their blood drawn and I know how RN's and phlebotomist's are. smilies/wink.gif

I like to say "remember the past"....but "don't relive it".

Have a nice day.

...

written by amy , July 28, 2008

Thanks, fortheunderdog!

Right, I like that advice, too!

Have a great the rest of the day! smilies/smiley.gif

-amy

...

written by bella , July 28, 2008

Hi Amy we got back from montana last nite, We bought a house in the county back home in Anaconda, off a dirt road, the house was built in 1920 its a 2 bedroom . below mt hamilton and mt hagin we see both mts . We have old pine trees in our front yard. you and your brothers family are welcome to vist , We have large Irish family who would love you. Amy I,m so sorry about your husband.

...

written by Dave Hardesty , July 29, 2008

O pity me! My lot in life has been worse than yours.

Really, a lot of you should really get a grip on this topic.

While I don't like to see misery on the part of anyone I do understand that a lot of the time people are making light of a situation mainly because they are inwardly saying, "Glad it didn't happen to me."

Painting your feelings and experiences on someone else is not a really a good thing to do, either for you or that other person.

You all have had your chances at raising your personal tragedies to put your point across. Well I suppose I will illustrate with mine.

My father was in the 82nd Airborn who suffered massive tragedy in France before the Normandy invasion. He was one of the lucky ones. He and two other fellows survived by being buried alive in a basement for three days before being dug out by Allied Troops. He further went on to be shot 9 times in the stomach with a large bore machine gun, had his left hand completely blown of by a mortar and spent two years of his life in a full body cast. He then eventually married and was told he was steril but had two children, one of whome died in childbirth.

Dad died as a result of a malignant geloblastoma in the brain and suffered with it till the end for approximately for one year and never complained one bit during his entire life about all the bad things that had happened to him and had an excellent sense of humor.

...

written by Dave Hardesty , July 29, 2008

Sorry, I am reposting the first part because of the massive spelling errors contained there.

O pity me! My lot in life has been worse than yours.

Really, a lot of you should really get a grip on this topic.

While I don't like to see misery on the part of anyone I do understand that a lot of the time people are making light of a situation mainly because they are inwardly saying, "Glad it didn't happen to me."

Painting your feelings and experiences on someone else is not a really a good thing to do, either for you or that other person.

You all have had your chances at raising your personal tragedies to put your point across. Well I suppose I will illustrate with mine.

My father was in the 82nd Airborne who suffered massive tragedy in France before the Normandy invasion. He was one of the lucky ones. He and two other fellows survived by being buried alive in a basement for three days before being dug out by Allied Troops. He further went on to be shot 9 times in the stomach with a large bore machine gun, had his left hand completely blown of by a mortar and spent two years of his life in a full body cast. He then eventually married and was told he was sterile but had two children, one of whom died in childbirth.

...

written by Dave Hardesty , July 29, 2008

Dad died as a result of a malignant geloblastoma in the brain and suffered with it till the end for approximately for one year and never complained one bit during his entire life about all the bad things that had happened to him and had an excellent sense of humor.

I was shot in the abdomen by my best friend when we were 10 years old. He remained my best friend until he went to Vietnam and was killed there. I watched my father slowly die a miserable death. When in Vietnam one of my friends was killed in a missile attack that destroyed the building I had just left less than five minutes before. I was the one that they though was killed and my family was notified falsely that I had been killed in action when actually it was my friend who died in my place.

My mother is in a nursing home today 16 years after my fathers death and after loosing her daughter and haven't had two children stolen away from her by her former husband.

She has an inoperable benign meningioma, is almost completely blind, cannot walk and yet still does the hospice work she has done she met my father convalescing in a hospital in Springfield Missouri.

My great grandfather was murdered by being shot in the back while wearing chains by a Union Sergeant in Colorado.

I have a niece, from my mother's previous marriage, that had the top of her head taken off in a traffic accident when she was about to graduate from high school. Today she has the mind of a twelve-year-old but fortunately has a husband that takes care of her and three normal children.

...

written by Dave Hardesty , July 29, 2008

Am I seeking pity? No. The point is to illustrate that bad things happen to everyone and touch everyone's lives.

Is it right to make light of any of these situations? Perhaps it is and perhaps it isn't. But because all of these things have happened to me, and believe me a whole lot of bad things have happened to me during my life, doesn't mean that my wallowing in self pity should prevent me from seeing that people are people and a lot of the time they are really blowing off steam as a mental relief in the concept "Thank God it didn't happen to me or one that I love."

Personally some of the humor I see here is rather therapeutic. But when someone sets themselves up as to who is the judge and jury to decide such things, it is my opinion that person has overstepped their bounds and would better off letting God decide such matters.

You chose to read and believe what you read. You don't have the right to make the decision about what others read or think for the same reason that only God can truly see what is in a person's heart.

Relax folks, enjoy your life and let God deal with the bad things. While bad things have happened to all of us we don't let those things become the masters of our lives. With all the bad things that have personally happened to me in my life I still feel blessed and am happy with the good things and chose to think on those, which God has instructed.

"I use to feel sorry for myself because I had no shoes, until I met a man who had no feet."

If you ever visit the terminally ill you will see two types of patients, those who wallow in their own self-pity, crying out "God why has this happened to me?" And those who are thankful for the good life they have been blessed with and who die with dignity and try to help those around them do the same.

...

written by Dave Hardesty , July 29, 2008

Their prayers go something like this, "Thank you Lord for the things you have allowed me to experience in this life and thank you for giving me the strength to help others die more peacefully as they struggle to the end of their lives."

You may agree with this and you may disagree with this. This is what I have personally observed and what works for me. I am thankful for both the tragedies and the good times that God has allowed me to experience in his infinite wisdom and thankful the tragedies have not been worse that many other people who live and have lived before me.

Take care all of you and try to love one another.

Dave Hardesty

...

written by amy , July 29, 2008

Good one! Was thinking of the test of "Job" who lost EVERYTHING but his life and retained his love for God. Blessed many times over at the end. Great thoughts, Dave Hardesty!

We become the stronger for it once we learn from our own misfortune, either be stronger or bitter.

Bella, so glad you got back safely from Montana. Have cousins living in Billings, Montana, too. Most are in Northwest and North east. LOL. My brother decided to be the first Californian in the family! I sure will tell him of your invitation and I am so pleased that you thought of inviting us. Hopefully, I will be able to meet your large Irish family! smilies/wink.gif
Thanks Bella! smilies/smiley.gif

-amy

...

written by bella , July 29, 2008

fortheunderdog my husband father and uncle were police in Anaconda montana, If you every need some down time , we have all kinds of room in our back yard , we have a RV pad made of pine pole with a cover hook up .out in the country. 10 minutes from george town lake, come out an fly fish , with us. we set below mt hamilton and mt hagin , Its like heaven there. bring you family . we will be there by the end of august or sept. your kids would love the mountins.

...

written by amy , July 29, 2008

bella, that would be a real hoot if fortheunderdog and others as well as I meet at your place!!!

My brother goes up north to go fly fishing with the family!!

He has roomful (exaggerating of course) of fly fishing poles, lures, waders, hats, fish baskets, and those pretty itsy bitsy lures!! He makes his own out of feather!

I'd like to try it one day.

Thanks, Bella!

-amy

...

written by bella , July 29, 2008

Hi amy , we all go to the famiy cabins in Georgetown lake to fly fish our cousin Ed morris lives there. I hope some time we can all meet there. we have family in Deer lodge to most of the men are Ironworkers, uncle mike morris was chief of police in Anaconda in the 50s til the 70s.

Re:Police logs and blotters all in on place

Posted by maybenotdumBcommenT - 2008/07/29 18:46

written by maybenotdumBcommenT , July 29, 2008

A fresh blotter for you all to degrade.

...

written by Former Tracyite , July 29, 2008

6:57 a.m.: A caller on the 1700 block of Groveview Way reported someone stole an "Obama sign" from the front yard.

And this truly is a crime!

...

written by Former Tracyite , July 29, 2008

A fresh blotter for you all to degrade.

Must be somewhat interesting to you. You tuned right in.

...

written by amy , July 29, 2008

The two running after the SUV appeared to be boys, one wearing all red, the caller said.

Yelling, "Wait up Mooommm!"

-amy

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 29, 2008

"12:40 p.m.: A caller reported child abuse at McDonald's at 1820 W. 11th St. when a man pulled the hair and slapped a 4-year-old girl. The girl screamed as the man hit her."

This one does not get any make-over. The caller should have gotten involved by stepping in or getting other patrons or employees of McDonald's to accompany him/her in confronting the person doing the slapping. Too many people won't become involved then later, on the news, you hear of something tragic. It's time to step up and stop these parents/custodians from abusing children.

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 29, 2008

"6:14 p.m.: A caller reported someone stole the catalytic converter from a Toyota Tacoma at the Park and Ride at 2600

Naglee Road."

Dave Hardesty, where's the police patrol?
(personal comment)

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 29, 2008

"7:15 p.m.: A caller from In-N-Out Burger at 575 W. Clover Road reported a fight between four or five people and that one had a knife. One man apparently assaulted an older man, but the victim told police he was neither stabbed nor injured, and that the suspects took off in a black Honda Civic. About 15 minutes later, a caller said one man returned with a gun."

If he would have only ordered those burgers "animal style" like he was asked this wouldn't have happened.

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 29, 2008

"written by maybenotdumBcomment , July 29, 2008

A fresh blotter for you all to degrade."

Everyone go to the top of the comments and see who the first one was to submit their writing.

...

written by maybenotdumBcomment , July 29, 2008

Actually ftud, I have a right to read these blotters and logs and just signed on. I was not the first person to see this empty, more like the 120th or so. I thought you all were asleep at the wheel or maybe you took a snack break. You may never run out of your (including you all)comedic insults but it will get boring to you all pretty soon. Yep, The day will come and your reasoning for a laugh will be mute. I'll check back in a bit to see if you have a remark for me about all this.

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 29, 2008

"6:06 a.m.: Police cited and released someone for shoplifting at Wal-Mart at 3010 W. Grant Line Road.

6:14 p.m.: A caller reported someone stole the catalytic converter from a Toyota Tacoma at the Park and Ride at 2600 Naglee Road."

The cited person wasn't able to take the item they tried to steal from Wal-Mart so they walked to the "Park and Ride" and stole a catalytic converter instead.

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 29, 2008

"22 p.m.: A caller reported someone stole a German shepherd that was sitting in a cage in the backyard of the caller's home on the 4600 block of Glenhaven Drive. The caller said he received a letter from one of his neighbors saying the caller fails to take care of his dogs, and he thinks the letter might be related to the dog's disappearance. But it turned out the back yard gate was left open and the dog might have run off."

The thief will get the surprise of their life when they realize that they stole a police dog that understands only German. Plotz!

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 29, 2008

"8:35 a.m.: A caller from the Jacobson Warehouse at 2020 N. MacArthur Drive reported someone stole $300 worth of monitors over the weekend."

Dummy security cameras fail to record theft that occurred over the weekend.
(sorry, another personal jab)

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 29, 2008

written by maybenotdumBcomment , July 29, 2008

"Yep, The day will come and your reasoning for a laugh will be mute."

Writer who thinks of reasons to laugh becomes silent (mute) after writing comment. smilies/wink.gif

...

written by Former Tracyite , July 29, 2008

"8:35 a.m.: A caller from the Jacobson Warehouse at 2020 N. MacArthur Drive reported someone stole $300 worth of monitors over the weekend."

Dummy security cameras fail to record theft that occurred over the weekend.
(sorry, another personal jab)

Everyday day you do not fail to make me laugh. Thank you.

...

written by maybenotdumbcomment , July 29, 2008

Dummy security cameras fail to record theft that occurred over the weekend.
(sorry, another personal jab)

Yes, very funny ftud. It's one thing to get a good laugh as you put it or maybe amy did but a whole other when you make it personal, but accuse others of it not being OK. No, I am not going thru all the emails to find any exact quote you made. But it is OK for a handicap person and a nurse who has it so awful at her job,(you could quit amy if it is so awful)to make fun of other people so you can feel better about yourself. Go ahead, I'm not stopping you, Just My opinion.

...

written by Former Tracyite , July 29, 2008

written by maybenotdumbcomment , July 29, 2008

Actually ftud, I have a right to read these blotters and logs and just signed on. I was not the first person to see this empty, more like the 120th or so. I thought you all were asleep at the wheel or maybe you took a snack break. You may never run out of your (including you all)comedic insults but it will get boring to you all pretty soon. Yep, The day will come and your reasoning for a laugh will be mute. I'll check back in a bit to see if you have a remark for me about all this.

So, what you are saying is that you missed them today and wondered where they were? How sweet! smilies/grin.gif

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 29, 2008

"A caller reported at 12:17 p.m. Monday that two guys ran after an SUV and fired two shots at it on the 200 block of West 23rd Street.

A second caller said the SUV that was shot at was a silver Ford Explorer occupied by a man and woman, and that a package was sitting in her front yard, though she didn't know if the couple dropped it.

The two running after the SUV appeared to be boys, one wearing all red, the caller said.

A trainee for U.S. Postal was riding with a supervisor in a personal vehicle delivering packages when 2 Norteno's opened fire after the postal employees left a blue package on the doorstep.

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 29, 2008

For the record, I'm not handicapped.

Just my opinion.

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 29, 2008

Thanks Former Tracyite,

It's better to laugh than to frown. Besides, loud laughter is better for your health than being disgruntled all the time.

...

written by THE CAUSE , July 29, 2008

6:58 p.m.: A caller reported that a vicious pit bull was on the loose on the 200 block of East Carlton Way, and that the caller took some neighbors kids inside her home to protect them. Police returned the dog to its home.

If the Dog was so Vicious, why did they return the Dog Home? Not all Pit Bulls are Vicious!!!!

=====

Re:Police logs and blotters all in on place

Posted by maybenotdumBcommenT - 2008/07/29 20:06

written by hahaYouPeople , July 29, 2008

6:57 a.m.: A caller on the 1700 block of Groveview Way reported someone stole an "Obama sign" from the front yard.

This event opened their eyes and made them realize what fools they were for having his sign up in the first place.

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 29, 2008

THE CAUSE and hahaYouPeople,

Once MNDC sees you're contributing "you gonna have some 'splainin to do". smilies/wink.gif

...

written by maybenotdumBcommenT , July 29, 2008

I quoted first and you choose to act juvenile. That is your way of poking fun at me and goading me. When it gets to a certain point yes I will write back. I made you all a tidy place to put you comments on in the forum section. May have missed a few tho, sorry about that. I'll keep it up to date for.

Re:Police logs and blotters all in on place

Posted by maybenotdumBcommenT - 2008/07/30 03:02

MNDC,

No, I'm not poking fun at you. I'm trying to show you that whatever you say is not going to stop anyone from adding their "thoughts" to the police log. Go ahead and berate everyone for supplying their thoughts and have a nice day. You don't have to come back to this blog and read the comments. Just read the stories and let well enough be. Or...you can read the comments and make yourself miserable. The choice is yours.

...

written by maybenotdumBcommenT , July 29, 2008

Now I'm smarter than that ftud. I knew you would keep it up. You may also skip over mine crotchety old man. I didn't say to stop doing it. I chuckled at the thought of beating you to the punch. So it must be annoying you. Good.

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 29, 2008

MNDC,

Now you've lost me. But have a good evening anyway. I'll chat more with you tomorrow.

...

written by bla , July 29, 2008

I just read all the depressing news on CNN & Fox. Thanks for ending my evening with a good laugh. I will be looking forward to tomorrow's comments.

Re:Police logs and blotters all in on place

Posted by maybenotdumBcommenT - 2008/07/31 15:10

OK, it seems I am first today. smilies/wink.gif

"Someone caught a man on his back patio eating cigarette butts after he had finished off two jars of mustard. The caller at 4:11 p.m. Tuesday said the man had been warned several times not to trespass, but that he keeps returning to the patio on the 2700 block of Naglee Road. Police said the man may be arrested for trespassing if he doesn't stop."

Stop what? Trespassing or eating cigarette butts with mustard? Even the grouchiest person can see the humor here I hope. smilies/wink.gif

Dave Hardesty

...

written by Dave Hardesty , July 30, 2008

Oh, almost missed it. How can you trespass if you are sitting on your own patio? The caller's patio or the man's own patio? Perhaps it's the caller who should be warned. smilies/wink.gif

...

written by Dave Hardesty , July 30, 2008

7:09 a.m.: A caller said someone stole the catalytic converter from his car as it was parked at the Park and Ride, 2650 Naglee Road. He refused to file a report and said he'd called just to let police know that it was the second time the device was stolen from his car in that area.

Yep, he sure did. And I was standing right next to him when he told the policeman checking out the park-&-ride early this morning while the rest of you were sleeping.

Dave Hardesty

...

written by Concerned Parents , July 30, 2008

Someone caught a man on his back patio eating cigarette butts after he had finished off two jars of mustard. The caller at 4:11 p.m. Tuesday said the man had been warned several times not to trespass, but that he keeps returning to the patio on the 2700 block of Naglee Road. Police said the man may be arrested for trespassing if he doesn't stop.

Do you have any Grey Poupon?

...

written by Concerned Parents , July 30, 2008

1:56 p.m.: A man whistled at a woman and her friend, and when they turned to look, they saw that he was masturbating near the railroad tracks by Schulte Road and Sycamore Parkway.

Never turn to look at a train whistle.

...

written by Concerned Parents , July 30, 2008

9:41 p.m.: A tall, heavy, tattooed man was walking around the swimming pool without a shirt in the Redbridge subdivision. Security said he's been given a warning for trespassing in the past.

He had just left the train tracks @ Schulte.

...

written by Concerned Parents , July 30, 2008

2:17 a.m.: Police arrested three men and a woman after they stole beer from Quick Stop, 1153 Lincoln Blvd., and then took off running. Police caught up with them seven minutes into the chase.

They would have gotten away if he darn keg wouldn't have been full!

...

written by Concerned Parents , July 30, 2008

The....

...

written by amy , July 30, 2008

2:45 a.m.: A man was seen drunkenly punching a church sign near Ninth Street and Metcalf Court.

What did it say to him? Did it say...."Stop visiting the bars?"smilies/wink.gif

-amy

...

written by Concerned Parents , July 30, 2008

12:48 a.m.: Police saw four young guys tapping with a baseball bat on the window of the shuttered Grantline Market, 504 W. Grant Line Road.

Was the window shuttered or shattered?

...

written by amy , July 30, 2008

9:41 p.m.: A tall, heavy, tattooed man was walking around the swimming pool without a shirt in the Redbridge subdivision. Security said he's been given a warning for trespassing in the past.

Usually people don't wear shirts to go swimming?

...

written by Former Tracyite , July 30, 2008

Someone caught a man on his back patio eating cigarette butts after he had finished off two jars of mustard. The caller at 4:11 p.m. Tuesday said the man had been warned several times not to trespass, but that he keeps returning to the patio on the 2700 block of Naglee Road. Police said the man may be arrested for trespassing if he doesn't stop.

Do you suppose the person writing the blotter has decided to have a little fun? Just seems to be crazy to be true. LOL

...
written by Concerned Parents , July 30, 2008
Your turn FTUD.

...
written by DO IT AGAIN , July 30, 2008
Well we can all see why our unemployment rate is so high, look at all the idiots that have left comments above! This is not Monster or hotjobs! employers are not looking for morons. A word of wisdom.....hurry and find a job before you spend all your money and can't pay the internet bill, or we may be reading about a loser on the 2300 block of 23rd St. who lost their job, ran out of money and jump off their roofing trying to commit suicide cause their didn't pay their internet bill and could not leave dumb comments on the Tracy press.

How that for some funny stuff?

hahahahahahaha

Bring on the fury

...
written by Concerned Parents , July 30, 2008
Gee Do it Again, looks like you're on here too writing a rather lengthy comment as well. Personally we are self employed and not looking for jobs but even if we were chances are there would be a few breaks involved. 2300 23rd St.? probably not a great idea to publish your address on this site Do It Again.

...
written by bla , July 30, 2008
Hey do it again, thanks for your witty sense of humor. I got a good chuckle out of that one. smilies/cheesy.gif
smilies/cheesy.gif

...
written by fortheunderdog , July 30, 2008
Dang, leave for a late lunch and come back to see all the good ones are taken. smilies/grin.gif

...
written by fortheunderdog , July 30, 2008
"9:41 p.m.: A tall, heavy, tattooed man was walking around the swimming pool without a shirt in the Redbridge subdivision. Security said he's been given a warning for trespassing in the past."

Are they sure it's a tattoo and NOT a shirt?

...
written by fortheunderdog , July 30, 2008

DO IT AGAIN,

Are you related to.....? Nah! smilies/shocked.gif

...
written by fortheunderdog , July 30, 2008
"7:32 p.m.: A couple 8- or 9-year-olds used zip ties to cut the circulation off the hands of a 6-year-old on the 900 block of West Ninth Street, a caller reported."

6 yr old, bleeding profusely from wound, saved by 8 and 9 yr old friends who use zip ties to slow circulation.

...
written by DO IT AGAIN , July 30, 2008
BLA

Thanks for taking it the right way, on the other hand looks like Concerned Parents is a little upset over my comment.....wonder why, can it be that the truth hurts? Miss self employed looks like the company is not doing so well if you have time to leave as many comments as you have!!! I too run my own ship. As far as the address goes dont fool yourself, dont live in that area. But if you want to take a drive in your SUV and find me there, go for it. Just look out for the KID WEARING ALL RED!

Another one in the bank!

Please try and come at me with something worth my time.

And remember the your reactions proves the thruth hurts. smilies/grin.gif

...

written by DO IT AGAIN , July 30, 2008

truth.....

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 30, 2008

"7:09 a.m.: A caller said someone stole the catalytic converter from his car as it was parked at the Park and Ride, 2650 Naglee Road. He refused to file a report and said heâ€™d called just to let police know that it was the second time the device was stolen from his car in that area."

Victim of catalytic converter theft reports another theft of same vehicle that was involved catalytic converter stolen the day before. This time possible witness Dave Hardesty was present when the police arrived. Officer angry that he had to take a report as he was just about to end midnight shift.

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 30, 2008

"Just look out for the KID WEARING ALL RED!"

I knew it!!! DO IT AGAIN is a Norteno! smilies/cheesy.gif

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 30, 2008

"2:45 a.m.: A man was seen drunkenly punching a church sign near Ninth Street and Metcalf Court.

And since it was committed to a church sign I'd have to assume it turned the other cheek.

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 30, 2008

"2:17 a.m.: Police arrested three men and a woman after they stole beer from Quick Stop, 1153 Lincoln Blvd., and then took off running. Police caught up with them seven minutes into the chase."

After they were caught, it was determined that they had each had a can of beer while they were running. Quik Stop retained the remaining 2 cans.

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 30, 2008

"12:48 a.m.: Police saw four young guys tapping with a baseball bat on the window of the shuttered Grantline Market, 504 W. Grant Line Road."

They just wanted to ask Johnny if he wanted to play some BB.

...

written by bla , July 30, 2008

Now this is what I am talking about... Finally something interesting to read. Too funny! smilies/cheesy.gif smilies/cheesy.gif smilies/cheesy.gif smilies/cheesy.gif

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 30, 2008

"Someone caught a man on his back patio eating cigarette butts after he had finished off two jars of mustard. The caller at 4:11 p.m. Tuesday said the man had been warned several times not to trespass, but that he keeps returning to the patio on the 2700 block of Naglee Road. Police said the man may be arrested for trespassing if he doesnâ€™t stop."

Hey, someone get ahold of that guy and send him to the front of the Great Plate. For a jar of mustard that guy'll clean up their sidewalk. smilies/wink.gif

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 30, 2008

"10:53 a.m.: A woman said she wants police to help her convince her son to stop taking his pet pit bull to her house on the 800 block of West Sixth Street."

6 yr old denied entrance into his house with the family pet.

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 30, 2008

"Tracy police responded to 223 calls for service Tuesday. The following is a sample of those reports:"

Hey, there are only 22 listings here, we want the other 201.

smilies/angry.gif

...

written by DO IT AGAIN , July 30, 2008

You caught me McGruff the crime dog. Use should join the police dept! Im sure their a EOE. but worrie if you have to use a walker and can catch any one, you will fit in perfect with the rest of the dounut supporters. smilies/wink.gif

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 30, 2008

"11:05 a.m.: A caller said a couple has been living out of a white pickup with a camper shell outside Wal-Mart, 3010 W. Grant Line Road. The caller said that earlier in the day, the two pickup-dwellers were walking around in their underwear and that they wash their hair and shower outside the truck every day."

They have an outdoor shower??? Time for Wal-Mart to install a security camera under parking lot lamp #51.

...

written by Former Tracyite , July 30, 2008

Hey, there are only 22 listings here, we want the other 201.

Oh the fun we could have with 201 more!

...

written by Former Tracyite , July 30, 2008

You caught me McGruff the crime dog. Use should join the police dept! Im sure their a EOE. but worrie if you have to use a walker and can catch any one, you will fit in perfect with the rest of the dounut supporters.

Unfortunately, cannot understand a word of this. smilies/cool.gif

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 30, 2008

DO IT AGAIN,

Join the police department? Are you kidding? I just retired from the police department.

smilies/cheesy.gif

The only EOE help I'll need is being first in line at the AARP annual picnic. smilies/grin.gif

...

written by Nicki , July 30, 2008

Someone caught a man on his back patio eating cigarette butts after he had finished off two jars of mustard. The caller at 4:11 p.m. Tuesday said the man had been warned several times not to trespass, but that he keeps returning to the patio on the 2700 block of Naglee Road. Police said the man may be arrested for trespassing if he doesn't stop.

Didn't they use to (way back when) give you jars mustard to make you throw up? Seems like I remember that then again it could have been all the cigs. I smoked instead of ate.

Anyway thanks ftud, concerned parents, Dave and others for making me laugh.

...

written by DO IT AGAIN , July 30, 2008

There is a shock, well have fun girl's and dont forget when MOMMY and DADDY ask you if you found a job yet today, tell them you were on the Tracy press all day looking but not yet. enjoy asking them for money so you can buy a 40oz loser's.

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 30, 2008

Former Tracyite,

Here's translation: "You caught me McGruff, the crime dog. You should join the police department. I am sure they're an

EOE agency. If you are having to use a walker, you won't catch anyone and you will fit in perfect with the rest of the police department if you eat donuts.

Whew! That was a tough one.

...
written by fortheunderdog , July 30, 2008

Thanks Do IT AGAIN,

Your words of encouragement are uplifting to me, and I'm sure to all the others who are contributing here. We try to bring a little sunshine into this world. Please feel free to browse around and read all the comments. We thank you for your patronage and welcome you back anytime. Please feel free to take one of the pamphlets at the door on the way out.

...
written by fortheunderdog , July 30, 2008

"Latest police blotter"

I can read between the lines here. The TP is wanting us to re-write funny comments by making the headline print bolder and adding another word to "Police Blotter". Way to go TP!

...
written by maybenotdumBcommentT , July 30, 2008
HAHAHAHAHA I like you DO IT AGAIN! These are the guys buying the 40 ounce in the brown paper bag. I knew there idiotic comments had no merit. Sorry I was gone all day. I had things to tend to. Like a life. HAHAHAHAHA

...
written by maybenotdumBcommentT , July 30, 2008
Just put, "Oh, shut up" for me, from me, after you make a comment about my latest remark.

...
written by maybenotdumBcommentT , July 30, 2008
ftud, you can make your own headlines bolder. Go to "view" and increase.

...
written by Concerned Parents , July 30, 2008

...
written by fortheunderdog , July 30, 2008

Former Tracyite,

Here's translation: "You caught me McGruff, the crime dog. You should join the police department. I am sure they're an EOE agency. If you are having to use a walker, you won't catch anyone and you will fit in perfect with the rest of the police department if you eat donuts.

Whew! That was a tough one.

FTUD-are you in possession of a Norteno to English dictionary? You know the one with the red cover?

...
written by Concerned Parents , July 30, 2008
If so please look up a "40oz loser's" just curious, thanks.

...
written by Annie Snyder , July 31, 2008
I am no Norteno, but I think that Do It Again did not finish that sentence. He was obviously referring to something belonging to a tiny creature.
DIA, a 2 pound, 8 ounce loser's what?

...
written by Annie Snyder , July 31, 2008
1:56 p.m.: A man whistled at a woman and her friend, and when they turned to look, they saw that he was masturbating near the railroad tracks by Schulte Road and Sycamore Parkway.

Dang it! I miss everything!

...
written by Annie Snyder , July 31, 2008
9:41 p.m.: A tall, heavy, tattooed man was walking around the swimming pool without a shirt in the Redbridge subdivision. Security said he's been given a warning for trespassing in the past.

Dang it! I need to get out more!

...
written by Annie Snyder , July 31, 2008

11:05 a.m.: A caller said a couple has been living out of a white pickup with a camper shell outside Wal-Mart, 3010 W. Grant Line Road. The caller said that earlier in the day, the two pickup-dwellers were walking around in their underwear and that they wash their hair and shower outside the truck every day.

There, but for the grace of God, go I. Nothing funny here.

...

written by amy , July 31, 2008

Welcome aboard Annie Snyder! Glad to see you are brave enough to "incur wrath". None from me!

Good ones!

Be ready with your explanation, it will be necessary to protect yourself!!! smilies/wink.gif

-amy

...

written by Annie Snyder , July 31, 2008

I ain't scared o' no wrath!

Seriously, if people have nothing better to do than be hostile to a thin, middle aged woman then I feel sorry for them. Plus, I don't take anyone seriously if they can't spell or punctuate well.

...

written by Former Tracyite , July 31, 2008

I like you Annie! That was seriously funny stuff.

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 31, 2008

"written by Concerned Parents , July 30, 2008

If so please look up a "40oz loser's" just curious, thanks."

I couldn't find anything under "40oz loser's" but I did find maybenotdumBcommentT's name under "400 lb loser".

smilies/grin.gif

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 31, 2008

Welcome aboard Annie Snyder!! You-know-who is going to start bashing you too. Hang on to your hat because I'm sure you'll hear something sometime today from the person who doesn't approve of our writings but takes the time to read them all and comment. Can you say "busy body"? smilies/cheesy.gif

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 31, 2008

For maybenotnicecommenT, (a.k.a. maybenotdumBcommentT)

Here is the reply I had for DO IT AGAIN. I feel it is appropriate for you also.

"Your words of encouragement are uplifting to me, and I'm sure to all the others who are contributing here. We try to bring a little sunshine into this world. Please feel free to browse around and read all the comments. We thank you for your patronage and welcome you back anytime. Please feel free to take one of the pamphlets at the door on the way out."

...

written by Former Tracyite , July 31, 2008

Well, DO ME AGAIN, I am officially unemployed as of today, so I will have all day to do this! My parents won't be worried, so I won't need to explain anything to them. I won't; however, be drinking any 40 ounce beers.

...

written by fortheunderdog , July 31, 2008

Former Tracyite,

You crack me up. smilies/grin.gif

...

written by DO IT AGAIN , July 31, 2008

written by Former Tracyite , July 31, 2008

Well, DO ME AGAIN, I am officially unemployed as of today, so I will have all day to do this! My parents won't be worried, so I won't need to explain anything to them. I won't; however, be drinking any 40 ounce beers.

Really I'm sorry to hear that! But review your prior comment, and that it may be a clue as to why your in the postion you are!

written by Former Tracyite , July 30, 2008

You caught me McGruff the crime dog. Use should join the police dept! Im sure their a EOE. but worrie if you have to use a walker and can catch any one, you will fit in perfect with the rest of the dounut supporters.

Unfortunately, cannot understand a word of this.

...
written by Concerned Parents , July 31, 2008
Former Tracyite- Maybe this can become your new career-you are funny. Thinking Leno!

...
written by Former Tracyite , July 31, 2008
DO ME AGAIN - the reason I wrote that comment was to make fun of all the spelling and grammatical errors contained in your statement. Did you ride the short bus and if so, did they require you wear a helmet too? smilies/cheesy.gif

...
written by Annie Snyder , July 31, 2008
Thanks guys! I just started looking at the police blotter online last week. I usually wait until my paper comes to read it. You all crack me up! Once school starts I won't have much time for all these shenanigans. Yes! I do have a job. No 40's for me either!

...
written by bla , July 31, 2008
I am not as quick witted as ya'll, but I certainly enjoy reading them. Thanks for the laughs. Sincerely, one of your supporters. smilies/wink.gif

...
written by fortheunderdog , July 31, 2008
DO IT AGAIN,

You should go back up a few comments and see who actually wrote the comment you're attributing Former Tracyite of writing.

"written by DO IT AGAIN , July 30, 2008
You caught me McGruff the crime dog. Use should join the police dept! Im sure their a EOE. but worrie if you have to use a walker and can catch any one, you will fit in perfect with the rest of the dounut supporters."

Do you have short term memory loss? YOU WROTE IT!!!

smilies/shocked.gif

Former Tracyite was having trouble deciphering your use of the English(?) language so I cleaned up your mess. Here it is again for you to peruse. Hopefully you'll be a fast learner and pick-up the English language so you'll be able to better put your thoughts into words. If you are unable to pick up on it I've got the address for Barnes and Noble where you can purchase a dictionary.

smilies/wink.gif

...
written by fortheunderdog , July 31, 2008
Translation:

"Here's translation: "You caught me McGruff, the crime dog. You should join the police department. I am sure they're an EOE agency. If you are having to use a walker, you won't catch anyone and you will fit in perfect with the rest of the police department if you eat donuts."

...
written by fortheunderdog , July 31, 2008

DO IT AGAIN....There's also a phone number you can call to help you in your writing skills. 1(800)E-N-G-L-I-S-H
smilies/wink.gif

...
written by Annie Snyder , July 31, 2008
See, now I would have looked like a whimp because I would not have replied to DIA's last comment. I thought it spoke for itself. It was odd.

...
written by maybenotdumBcommenT , July 31, 2008
At least I'm not the only one that notice the juvenile behavior.

My cat was ripped apart by two big dogs years ago. It made the papers here. I ways back I was given a kitten that some boy tied rubber bands around her feet. She chewed her own toe off. My sister was run over by a truck that missed her stomach by a couple inches. Made the paper. My father had a seizure and sheared an electrical pole in half, the wires were holding the top of the pole on the broken part of the bottom. He lived thru it. It made the paper.

None of them where reported that way.

The first cat died from shock, must have been the ten in gash in his hide the dogs ripped open. The second cat is still with us and she is 15 years old. My sister was in traction for a month and a body cast for three months, and she was barely 11 years old. She had to learn to walk all over again. My father was in intensive care for months, kept almost dieing on us.

Thank God I have compassion for these people.

Annie, you could have taken up knitting. Crowd mentality is very low here. I think I'll call the news and let them have a look at our fine citizens of Tracy.

=====